

Organic mercury replacement catalyst NT CAT E-AT

Organic mercury replacement catalyst

NT CAT E-AT is specially developed for environmentally friendly two-component foam-free polyurethane elastomer track materials. It is completely different from commonly used amine tin catalysts. It has its own unique foam suppression function, which can largely shield trace moisture contained in polyurethane raw materials (poly Ether polyol can be used without high-temperature vacuum dehydration), even in wet and rainy weather, it can completely avoid the phenomenon of bulging, foaming, cracking, etc., which is very similar to the catalytic performance of organic mercury and lead
